What has been the biggest highlights of your American education experience?

My three favorite things here are... the first one is the weather. The weather in Colorado is really, really cool. Before I came here I searched online, and it said 300 days a year are sunny in Fort Collins. When I came here, it is true.

The second one, I think, is the people. Yeah, the people are really nice here.

The third one is... I like all of my professors here. The teachers from INTO CSU and CSU are really kind to me. The faculty members at INTO CSU are super supportive. Whatever problem you have just talk to your teachers, and have good communications, that would be helpful.

What is the best thing that has come out of being an INTO CSU student?

One of the best things from INTO CSU is the English for Academic Purposes class I took last semester. That was a writing class. The class taught me how to write an academic article, how to format a whole article, what is structure, what is the framework. That class really helped me a lot, because I am an English major, and I have to write a lot of papers. Writing is really important, yeah, INTO CSU taught me that.

What advice do you have for students that want to study in the US?

For studying in the US, I would tell students to raise their hand in the class. Ask your professors questions. Don't be afraid, the professors will never laugh at you. Go to the office hours of your professor. That will be a good way for you to connect and make the professor know you better. The most important thing is to work hard. It's really important. This place is better than you can imagine. You won't regret it.
